In 2019, New Jersey expanded its civil statute of limitations for sexual assault. This means more survivors of sexual violence in N.J. have the option to access the civil justice system than ever before in our state’s history.

WHAT HAPPENED TO NEW JERSEY’S CIVIL STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS?

Prior to the reform of N.J.’s civil statute of limitations, survivors of sexual assault had a limited timeframe of two years to seek justice through civil litigation (or, for survivors of sexual abuse during their childhood, two years after age 18).

Under the new, extended statute of limitations, all victims of sexual assault have seven years to pursue civil action against the person who harmed them. Adult survivors of childhood sexual abuse have until the age of 55 to bring a civil case or seven years from the time that they became aware that their trauma is linked with financial harm. The law also creates a one-time, two-year look-back window that allows survivors to bring lawsuits that were time-barred under the previous statute of limitations. The window took effect on December 1, 2019.

HOW TO FILE A CIVIL LAWSUIT

Consulting with a qualified lawyer can help you navigate the challenges presented by litigation.

- For free referrals to attorneys for consultation, call the National Crime Victim Bar Association at (844) LAW-HELP or visit victimsofcrime.org/our-programs/national-crime-victim-bar-association/for-victims
- For information about low-cost or pro bono civil legal assistance, contact your local legal services program at LSNJ.org/LegalServicesOffices

Once you have obtained legal representation, they will help you decide who to sue and which claims to bring against the defendant(s).

ADDITIONAL RESOURCES:

- "A Survivor’s Guide to Filing a Civil Lawsuit" by the Washington State Coalition of Sexual Assault Programs
- "Civil Justice for Victims of Crime in New Jersey" by the National Crime Victim Bar Association
WHY WAS EXPANDING THE CIVIL STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS IMPORTANT?

Delayed reporting is common for survivors of sexual violence. One national study of female adult survivors of child sexual abuse found that nearly half did not disclose the abuse to anyone for over five years. Another study using data from a sexual assault hotline found that the average age of callers reporting child sexual abuse was 52 years old. Research demonstrates that adult survivors of sexual violence also often delay reporting.

Sexual assault takes a financial toll on survivors. A 2017 CDC study found that the lifetime cost for sexual violence is $122,461 per victim. Research further shows that victimization in adolescence can lead to reduced income in adulthood, with an estimated lifetime income loss of $241,600 for survivors of sexual abuse during adolescence.

By extending the civil statute of limitations for sexual assault, New Jersey recognizes this reality of delayed reporting and maximizes opportunities for victims to pursue justice and seek compensation for the financial impacts of sexual assault.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>CRIMINAL CASE</th>
<th>CIVIL CASE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Goal is to hold the defendant accountable to the state.</td>
<td>Goal is to hold the defendant accountable to the survivor.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>State prosecutes and controls the case.</td>
<td>Survivor initiates and controls the case.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Victim is a witness and does not have the right to direct the prosecution of the case or to veto the prosecutor’s decisions.</td>
<td>Survivor is a part of the case and entitled to all important information relating to the case and can make decisions about the direction of the case, such as a settlement of a claim.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Defendant is presumed innocent until proven guilty.</td>
<td>Both parties appear before judge as equals.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>If defendant is found guilty, they are subjected to punishment such as probation or prison. The survivor will not obtain money unless the court orders the defendant to pay restitution for the victim’s out-of-pocket expenses. The court cannot order restitution for non-economic damages.</td>
<td>If the defendant is found liable, they will owe an obligation to the survivor, such as money to compensate for medical and therapy expenses, psychological damage, damage to family relationships, and lost wages. The court can order the perpetrator to pay for non-economic damages, such as pain and suffering.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Table adapted from the National Center for Victims of Crime

REFERENCES

© New Jersey Coalition Against Sexual Assault 2019.
The New Jersey Coalition Against Sexual Assault (NJCSA) is the statewide organization representing 21 county-based rape crisis centers and Rutgers University’s Office for Violence Prevention and Victim Assistance. NJCSA elevates the voice of survivors and service providers through advocacy, training, and support for efforts to create safer communities for all people.